

Presenter Bios: The Power of Data in Supporting Recovery High Schools

Andy Finch, MEd, PhD, is Professor of the Practice and Core Faculty in the Department of Human and Organizational Development at Vanderbilt University. His research investigates the role of schools as continuing care for substance use disorders, counseling and human development, and the ecology of schools. He is also a cofounder of ARS and one of its former Executive Directors.

Rachelle Gardner, MA, is the Executive Director and cofounder of Hope Academy. She began her career as an addictions counselor and previously served as the board chair for ARS. She is also a licensed clinical addiction counselor. With over 30 years of experience in the field, she is passionate about helping adolescents affected by drug and alcohol misuse and addiction.

Jordan Jurinsky, MEd, is a doctoral candidate in the Department of Human and Organizational Development at Vanderbilt University and a person in long-term recovery. He conducts interdisciplinary research on addiction recovery that investigates the social contexts of youth and addresses questions of health equity for youth, families, and communities. He is also the Project Director for SEARS.

Sharon Dursi Martin, MAT, is Harmony Academy's Founding Principal and the board secretary of ARS. Sharon is a passionate advocate for young people and a person in long term recovery. Since 2006, she has dedicated her career to creating vibrant school and classroom communities where students can experience deep belonging, connection, and personal growth.